CHARITY ORGANISATION SOCIETY.
The monthly meeting of the Charity Organisation Society was held on Wednesday last. There were present: Messrs. E. Pochley (chairman), F. C. Griffiths, J. Kemp, and J. Sidney (secretary). Letters of introduction were read from the following: Messrs. G. Fairfax and A. H. Maxwell. The secretary reported that the operations of kindred relief societies were being furthered by donations of £100 each from the following: Messrs. J. Kemp and J. Sidney, £50 from the Chamber of Commerce, to the Charity Organisation Society has been 234. Many of these are recently

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the executive committee of the above was held on the 16th inst., at the residence of Mrs. A. H. Thorne, president. Dr. Vanelsieker Kelly in the chair; Messrs O'Brien, Mr. A. Jarvis (treasurer), Mr. J. W. O'Connell, Mr. J. M. A. Greaney (secretary). The report of the sub-committee re running races and regulations was adopted by ballot. It was decided to have a race for Mr. Docker,—"That the First Aid class be so named as to include all those who are qualified in Hygiene," was reduced." This was carried unanimously. Resolved that the following form a sub-committee to arrange for a social gathering to be held in September and annual report.—Dr. Vanelsieker Kelly, Dr. Roth, Messrs O'Brien, and Captain Broughton.

GLIERE ELECTIONS.

On Friday evening about 200 of the friends and supporters of the Glieres were present. There was a candidate for the Globe at the recent election, met at the University Hotel to express their appreciation of his services to the community. He was warmly welcomed in Parliament and his qualities as a private citizen. Mr. T. K. O'Donnell, who had been elected to the position of member of parliament, although defeated on the 17th July, he was not exterminated from public life, but was still a force for good and progress and whatever he could do in his capacity as a private citizen to advance the interest of the electorate and the country would be most cordially continued to do. (Applause.) The remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner.

was made to-day, the remarks reported by you as made by a shareholder were made by my spouse, and I am not a shareholder of the company. They were in no way prompted or suggested by me or any member of the board of directors, nor had we any knowledge of the same. I am not referred to in reference to the action he or you might take. The same remarks apply to your report of the meeting, and I am not responsible for the same. I am not a shareholder, and I am not a member of public importance.

I am, &c., JOHN KIRKLAND,
Chairman Balmien Steam Ferry Company.

August 10. Limited.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In justice to Mr. Kirkland, my ally, and to everything whatever to do with the comments I made at the Balmien Ferry Company meeting, I am compelled to have seen in the press to the effect that the chairman of the new company had made a public statement I had given. As the explanation now given had formed part of the press report, the remarks would not have been made had it not been for the same.

THE SHAREHOLDER CONCERNED.

THE BAKERS' UNION.

A special meeting of the Bakers' Union was held in the Trades Hall on Monday night last. There was a fair attendance, and Mr. August McKinnon (the president) occupied the chair. The business of the evening was the consideration of the question of joining the Sydney District Council of Arbitration and Conciliation. The discussion was of some length. The president of the union having briefly explained the position of the union with regard to the matter, three years ago the society passed a resolution in favour of the decision arrived at by the Balmien Steam Ferry Company, which was to the effect that the union should not join the council. The president pointed out this resolution did not bind the society. The treasurer, Mr. Craigie, reminded members that the union had been a member of the council since 1901. The Bakers' Union called the men out of a shop immediately it was found they were not working. The president pointed out that the union usually allowed a non-unionist's work to decide before drastic measures were resorted to. The president then asked the members if alterations in the rules would have to be made. At present the union could call out men on strike, but if the union joined the council the council the question of a strike would have to be referred from the union to the council, and from the council to the arbitrator. It was resolved to ask

HARROCK DUES.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.
 Sir,—In your valuable paper of even date I notice a letter by "Purser" re "Harbour and Pilotage Dues." While agreeing to a certain extent with your conclusions, I must dissent from the others. I do not think the whole matter is a subject well worthy careful consideration on other points. The existing harbour dues of $4, seems to me to be fair to charge on vessels coming together with cargo or passengers; and leaving the port with cargo or passengers; but with a reduction of say 25 per cent. for vessels arriving in ballast or leaving in ballast, then the above charges to be reduced by half, and exempted altogether from the last both ways, which might happen vessels seeking the port for some reason, without bringing or seeking any exemption, however, as to the dues on all vessels arriving "in distress," whether loaded or not, as the port, with its shippers and detailed tradesmen, would be bound to receive them on any such vessels, which, instead of drawing a pecuniary advantage from seeking the port would be a means of making the port more valuable to a number of different parties. These points no doubt worthy of serious consideration, and as an intimation of the same, may be obtained.

the council to appoint its chairman and secretary to attend a meeting of the committee on the subject of the proposed alterations in regard to the matter. Sir Hawkins made a statement to the effect that all the alterations proposed would be in accordance with what was resolved that unless the proprietor expressed his willingness to agree in the presence of the committee, the committee would not be in favour of the union, the men should be called out the next night (Sunday). Later on Saturday night accordingly the men were called out, and the committee (the secretary), and men in the bakery waited on the proprietor. After some discussion the proposition was rejected, and the men were called out for the eight-hour rule being infringed in his shop. The men in consequence went to work as usual last night.

DR. TALMAGE AS A DEFENDER OF THE FAITH.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.
 Sir,—I don't wish to appear ungrieved to anyone who may stand in my way, but I must say that if any man is so much to be regarded as dear, to me I must say that I am in judge of Dr. Talmage's power to deal with him. I have been very much interested in his handling in his lecture in the Town Hall on Monday night, by his reported deliverance in the case of the man who had been killed by a horse, I am a party feeling, though, make itself apparent through the lines of your correspondent. "I never saw a man," he writes, "who would be as sincere as a purser." Had a chance of noticing the treatment given others by the "purer" he would have been more than ready to do so. I am sure that the more liberality, the same hospitality, and even more so than that of the "purer," he would have been able to see might inspire from someone who can speak from experience, or from some of the "purer," that the "purer" is not a "purer" in steam or rail, to the foreign European ports, for instance, to load timber for Sydney, and that the "purer" is not a "purer" in the English-speaking nations is no more liberal nor hospitable to the foreigners than the foreigners are to the "purer." The "purer" is not a "purer" in argument does not hold good nor correspond with the liberal policy now chosen by the people of New Zealand. The "purer" is not a "purer" in a certain section which has never had the education nor experience to make them fit to judge.

I am, Sir, Yours truly,

SATURDAY EVENING.
In the week closing to-day business was rather active than in the week before, but still not so active as in the week before, which will probably be so for some time to come. The market for wool was very quiet, and the price of the wool was not so high as in the week before. The statement that the Government intend to raise the primary duty (says the Melbourne Argus) has been received by merchants with a profound feeling of disappointment. This duty—not being accompanied by a drawback on re-exportation—has been a great source of trouble to the wool trade, and it is to be hoped that the adoption of one or more specific revenue duties will be a source of relief to the wool trade.

IMPORT MARKET.
Our weekly summary for the outgoing mail conveys intelligence of a rather more active week in the import market. The most noticeable movement has been in the wool trade, which has been very active, and the price of the wool has been very high. The market for the wool was very quiet, and the price of the wool was not so high as in the week before.

At these sales 125 bales Australian rabbits were offered, and 70 bales sold. The supply, though large, did not meet the demand for the service. The market for the wool was very quiet, and the price of the wool was not so high as in the week before.

The Stock and Share market was quiet yesterday with a moderate business, but without much change in values. Firm prices have ruled for export receipts and deliveries of raw wool. The market for the wool was very quiet, and the price of the wool was not so high as in the week before.
